

Chris McConville - Bio - 2020

Chris McConville is a London based, Scottish singer-songwriter, solo artist and drummer.

A former signed artist as drummer in The Bishops who were signed to 1234 Records and Sony ATV Publishing.

The Bishops released 3 albums and toured the world. To share a few highlights; working with analog producer, Liam Watson, who produced the bands debut album. Going to Japan to promote the album. Opening the main stage at Benicassim festival for Oasis and Supporting James Blunt on his UK and European arena tour.

Chris' has released 1 solo album so far - 'Now Summers Gone' and is currently working on new songs written, performed and produced by himself to be released as soon as possible

Chris has a new single – 'Fire' coming out on Friday May 8th which is a tribute to Tony Eke of the Blackhill Pioneers who died last year after a short battle with cancer. It is a song that the band were working on but unable to finish before Tony's death.

More new music to follow...